

Feisal Keshavjee

Senior Vice President, Health Partnerships & Transformation, Home Health Services, CBI Health, Calgary, Alberta

BIOGRAPHY

Feisal Keshavjee is the Senior Vice President, Health Partnerships & Transformation, Home Health Services and Rehab Operations overseeing 26 clinics in Alberta. He is an accomplished healthcare leader who has worked in all facets of the healthcare system – policy, public, private, corporate, and early stage. He has worked in the healthcare system in Calgary where he was greatly involved in the restructuring and regionalization efforts throughout the nineties. He was also a Principal for Ernst & Young in the Asia Pacific region, carrying out numerous post-merger integration efforts in New Zealand, Australia and Malaysia.

Feisal has held the position of Director of Business Development for the University of Calgary, Faculty of Medicine, General Manager for GE Healthcare, CEO of a large radiology practice in Calgary, and CEO of a health technology start-up.

For the past few years, Feisal has been involved in the health technology sector in Alberta and is a sessional instructor at the University of Calgary Cumming School of Medicine Precision Health Program. Prior to joining CBI Health, he led a boutique consulting practice in the healthcare space and has been involved in a number of engagements involving strategic planning, business growth, due diligence, negotiation, project planning, and operational excellence.

Feisal is the current Chair of the Alberta Continuing Care Association, the voice of the Continuing Care sector in Alberta, and was the Past Chair of the Canadian College of Health Leaders, the professional association for Canada's 4,000+ health leaders and industry executives. He currently sits on the Board of two not-for-profit, long-term care providers and has served in many other board roles including an artificial intelligence imaging company and medical device company among others.